News Release

On Wednesday night, San Antonio Police Chief William McManus returned from Dayton, Ohio, where a jury's decision on Friday, on a reverse discrimination lawsuit was determined.

Regarding this decision, Chief McManus states: "I am disappointed in the jury's decision. However, this does not deter my confidence in the system and I maintain that I acted appropriately. The decision to terminate an appointed member of my command staff was within my scope of authority and was not based in any way on race".

Chief McManus looks forward to his work here in San Antonio and is committed to working with his officers and the community in making San Antonio the safest community possible.
